Doves Shut Out by the Giants, 3 to 0,
Yesterday—Young Pitched a Good
Game, But His Team Didn't
Help Him With the Bat.

Boston, June 4.—Christy Mathewson was in rare form yesterday afternoon and his superb pitching enabled the New York Giants to shut out the Boston Red Sox by the score of 3 to 0. Mathewson fanned eleven Bostonians, being mowed down three times, Beaumont, Bates and Young twice each and Ritchey and Dahler contributing the other strike-outs. But three scattered singles were all that Boston could do in the batting line. But six Bostonians saw first base and only one saw second.

Young Cy Young was on the firing line for Boston and pitched good enough ball for an ordinary game, but in a game where his team-mates were paralyzed at the plate his twisting didn't go for much. New York got six hits, all told, but only two of them did any good. These two came in the second inning, which Bates started off by miffing Seymour's fly. Needham came next with a double to the center field fence. Devin doubled at once to right, and the two men on bases tallied. Doyle sent Devin to third on a sacrifice, and on Devin's out to Brown Devin scored. Beaumont gathered in Mathewson's fly and the inning was over; also the scoring of the game.

Ferguson pitched the last inning and didn't give a hit. Only once after dark were the New Yorks within scoring distance, and that was in the third inning, when Shannon had singled and Bowerman had fumbled Tenney's bunt so long that both runners were safe. It was then that Young did his best pitching of the game, fanning Donlin, whereupon Shannon was nailed going to third. Young fanned Seymour.

But a single Dove advanced beyond first base. Bowerman started in the second and went to second on Ritchey's out, but he died there, as the third man went out at first. The score:

SIR ROBERT REID DIES.

Canadian Capitalist Succumbs to Pneumonia.
Montreal, Que., June 4.—Sir Robert Reid died at 2 o'clock yesterday morning at his residence here. Sir Robert had been in ill health for some time and was stricken with pneumonia about two weeks ago. He was born in Scotland in 1842. He was prominent as a promoter and capitalist.

Sir Robert Gillespie Reid was born in Perthshire, Scotland, and emigrated to Australia in 1865. After some years there, during which he was interested in successful gold mining ventures, he went to America in 1871, with considerable capital already at his disposal. Engaging as a railway contractor he constructed the railway bridge across the Niagara river, that over the Rio Grande, the Lachine bridge over the St. Lawrence and important bridges in the western states.

Later he was in charge of the building of the bridges between Montreal and Quebec on the Montreal, Quebec & Ottawa, now a part of the Canadian Pacific system. In the United States he built the Colorado river bridge at Austin, Texas, in 1880 and all the iron and masonry bridges on the first 250 miles of the Southern Pacific railway west of San Antonio.

Mr. Reid's greatest work of construction from the physical viewpoint was on the Canadian Pacific railway north of Lake Superior, which included a tunnel 450 feet in length through solid granite. He also built the Lachine bridge, three-quarters of a mile long, across the St. Lawrence.

In 1890 Mr. Reid began the building for the Newfoundland government of the Halls Bay railway, and upon its completion in 1903 he took up the building of the Western railway from Halls Bay to Port au Basque, assuming its operation when the work was completed.

Hetty Green Orders Press Clipping Bureau to Send All References.

New York, June 4.—Mrs. Hetty Green, who recently moved from a modest little home in Hoboken to a palatial suite in the Plaza and who had the change by an expensive dinner there, sent to a press clipping bureau this order:

"Send me, till forbid, all newspaper references to Mrs. Hetty Green, especially in connection with social life, wherever found in the papers of America. This must include every paper of any prominence."

The manager said Mrs. Green will get what she wants, but that she will probably have to get up earlier in the morning to be able to read all that is printed about her since her recent invasion of the higher social circles.

FINE DISPLAY, FIREWORKS

Also A Balloon Ascension on Goddard Campus

GODDARD VS. SPAULDING

"Red" Conner Started the Pyrotechnics and Fisher Ended 'Em—The Score of a So-called Ball Game Was 20 to 8 for Goddard.

A small but enthusiastic crowd attended the balloon ascension and fireworks on the Goddard campus yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Goddard and Spaulding high school baseball teams and when the six o'clock supper bell at the seventh inning finally put an end to the finest display of pyrotechnics ever beheld on the diamond, Goddard carried off the honors with 20 scores to the high school's 8.

"Red" Conner, who made his first appearance as a box artist for Goddard, started the red lights with all of the latest motions known to the art and sailed grandly up in the first balloon at the third inning, where he stayed until the middle of the fourth, when Capt. Heath saw his distress signal and, coming to his rescue, sent him to the shower bath. Olsen was then put on the firing line and Goddard's part of the display came to an end.

It was Spaulding's turn then and Fisher was the aeronaut who went up in the second ascension in the fifth, and did the tricks on the bar while sixteen Goddard men planked the ball at him and eleven of them danced around the bases before he made his parachute drop.

Spaulding got two of her eight runs in the second inning after Conner had walked three men in succession and then scored one of them on a balk, and the next one when Harrison shot a rocket down to second that hit a runner in the back. With one down in the third, two more high school men walked and, stealing second and third respectively, scored on Carswell's hit to center, the only hit of the game made by the Spaulding team. Grigg was next given a pass and Carswell, having gone to third on a passed ball, scored on Solinski's grounder to Conner, who fished the ball to Harrison, but he failed to touch the runner. Grigg landed on third and scored on a wild pitch.

With no one down and the bases full in the fourth, Conner was removed from the box and Olsen took his place. Johnson hit a grounder to Wishart, who threw low to the plate, and Heide, who had been put in to catch Olsen, let the ball through his mitt and Fisher and Cummings scored. After this there was nothing more in the scoring line for Spaulding.

Goddard lammed the ball for 20 hits off Fisher, including a home run by Berry, who also circled the bases a second time in the third inning on a hit to right which the fielder let bound by him and roll over the bank. The climax was reached in the fifth, when sixteen Goddard men went to bat and seven of them hit safely for a total of eleven runs. The score:
